

Dr. Marcia Crosby Bio

An art historian/scholar of Ts'msyen and Haida descent, Marcia is a recognized expert in urban Indigenous histories, performance, and social networks. She is a writer, art historian and educator, whose work interrogates mainstream representations and historical narratives of First Nations peoples and cultures. She is the author of the influential 1991 essay "Construction of the Imaginary Indian."